

BAĞLAM

As part of an international culture festival, students at Greenhill High School were asked to introduce traditional celebrations from their countries. During the event, Ayşe talked about Turkish wedding traditions and explained how families usually gather for large celebrations that include music, traditional dances and local dishes. Meanwhile, students from Japan, Mexico and India introduced their own customs and ceremonies. Although the traditions were different, many students realized that family unity and social interaction played an important role in all cultures. At the end of the festival, the school principal emphasized that learning about different traditions helps students become more respectful and open-minded individuals.

SORU 1

What common point did students notice about different traditions?

- A) They all focus mainly on modern technology.
 - B) They completely ignore family relationships.
 - C) They generally encourage family interaction and unity.
 - D) They are all celebrated in exactly the same way.
 - E) They are mostly based on individual activities.
-

SORU 2

According to the principal, why is it important to learn about different traditions?

- A) It helps students become more respectful and understanding.
 - B) It encourages students to abandon their own cultures.
 - C) It prevents communication between different societies.
 - D) It makes all traditions identical over time.
 - E) It allows students to focus only on international customs.
-